Mr Pearce reported that the premises had in the past operated more as a venue for loud music entertainment than a restaurant, and expressed concerns regarding the suitability of the premises for the playing of recorded music due to the lack of sound-proofing, and the late operating hours applied for. Mr Pearce reported on previous complaints made to the Noise Team relating to the premises, and gave details of abatement notices that had been served on the premises. complaints had been received regarding the premises when it had been operating without a licence, and reported that, following checks, there was no evidence that the applicant had a long term interest in the premises.

The applicant addressed the Committee and reported that, since he had become involved with the premises, there had been only a single noise complaint, since which time he had always complied with any requests for music at the premises to be turned down. The applicant reported that the premises would operate as a restaurant, not a venue for music and dancing, that there would be no loud music played and that CCTV and doormen would be used to ensure that there was no disturbance. The applicant noted that some of the complaints received were from residents who did not live close to the premises, and that the noise being reported was not always from this particular premises.

In response to questions from the Committee, the applicant reported that he had an arrangement in place to take the lease on the premises over from the current leaseholder, but that this was conditional on him being granted a licence. The applicant also reported that he had already demonstrated commitment to the premises by undertaking a refurbishment, and stated that he would be willing to invest in any works necessary at the premises if the licence were granted. In response to questions from the Committee regarding whether the applicant was aware that the premises had been operating without a licence, the applicant responded that he had been informed by the previous manager of the premises that a licence was in place, but had not verified this separately and now realised that this was something that he should have done.

The Committee asked about the applicant's relationship with residents living close to the premises, and the applicant reported that he had spoken to residents about noise from the premises in the past, since when there had been no problems and the premises had a good relationship with its neighbours.

The Legal Officer asked for further information regarding the freehold and leasehold of the premises. The applicant reported that Mr Kwateng held a 19-year lease on the premises, of which 3 years had elapsed. Mr Pearce enquired about the financial feasibility of employing doormen when the applicant had stated that the capacity of the venue was just 25-30 customers, and the applicant responded that doormen would not be required for normal nights, only for special events.

The Licensing Officer asked the applicant for further information on some of the conditions proposed in the application. In response, the applicant confirmed that overcrowding would be avoided by having a policy that all customers were to be seated and that a waste management agreement was being entered into with the Council to ensure that waste was dealt with appropriately.

In conclusion, Mr Pearce emphasised the serious concerns the Noise

	Team had regarding the application for recorded music and requested that, were the licence to be granted, the conditions suggested by the Noise Team be taken into consideration. RESOLVED The Committee considered the application fully, together with the representations from the responsible authorities, objectors and the applicant. However, after much deliberation, we reject the whole of the application for the premises licence. The Committee feels that there was overwhelming evidence in relation to nuisance, specifically noise, nuisance, and was concerned that, by his own admission, Mr Tshilumba has struggled to fully comply with requirements under the Environmental Protection Act in relation to noise nuisance and the Food Hygiene Regulations. The questions posed by those present to Mr Tshilumba were not satisfactorily answered and neither Mr Tshilumba nor the premises itself appears to the Committee to be adequately managed and equipped to operate this premises licence in its current form. The representations by the noise officer were compelling and the fact that there is a history of noise complaints with the premises since Mr Tshilumba's involvement, the issue of outbreak of music does not appear to have been adequately addressed. We were concerned with his inability to sufficiently and satisfactorily answer questions in relation to his interest in the property, his ability to comply with conditions if imposed, his general understanding in relation to the Licensing Act 2003 and his failure to provide us with sound and enforceable conditions that he could be expected to adhere to. We were concerned with his inability to sufficiently and satisfactorily answer questions in relation to his interest in the property, his ability to comply with conditions if imposed, his general understanding in relation to the Licensing Act 2003 and his failure to provide us with sound and enforceable conditions that he could be expected to adhere to.
