Subject: FW: Chickentown licence application

I am writing to make a representation regarding the application by Chickentown to supply alcohol on its premises daily from 11am.

As I understand it, this restaurant is promoting itself to young people, offering an alternative to fried chicken shops elsewhere in Tottenham. The main element to this is that the business will offer a reduced price Junior Special meal to attract teenagers. Given that this is a main objective, and that the venue is adjacent to CHENEL, why is Chicken town applying for an alcohol licence from 11am? We are all only too aware of the impact alcohol has on people, and it seems perverse on the one hand, to promote the restaurant as a 'A new room for young Tottenham' whilst having alcohol on sale which young adults could purchase. Other restaurants and venues established to cater for young people have provided a range of non-alcoholic alternatives. How can this be promoted as a safe young space for young people in Tottenham whilst selling alcohol? Many nearby restaurants have alcohol licenses but their marketing approach is not to offer a healthy alternative for young people buying food at lunchtime or after school. Neither are they subsidised by a local authority and taxpayers money to offer healthy eating. Alcohol will be on sale in the business and a large element of the day customers will be youngsters. How can this reflect the ambition of Chickentown to be a safe place for young people?

Alongside the issue of selling alcohol on these premises during the school day and after school/college, this restaurant could also act as a magnet for young people if it is successful in marketing itself. How will having alcohol for sale during and after the school day assist in promoting a healthy lifestyle for young people and how can this be in keeping with the public funding provided to offer an alternative place for young people to eat?

Please let me know when the committee is meeting.

Subject: Chickentown licence application
Attachments: New room for young tottenham.jpg

My concern about this licence is based on the applicant being a licensed premises while aspiring to offer 'A new room for young Tottenham'.

The publicity surrounding the Chickentown project makes much of the ambition to encourage healthy friend chicken eating as a way of reducing obesity amongst teenagers in Tottenham. The main element to achieving this is the initiative that the business will offer a reduced price Junior Special meal to attract teenagers away from 'unhealthy' food outlets.

With the venue being close to CONEL it is likely that a lot of the day custom for Chickentown will be teenagers and young adults studying next door. Further, the business has set out its aspiration to be a 'A new room for young Tottenham' because it believes young people have few options of where to go to. I attach the drawing provided by the business regarding the new room aspiration.

I believe that it is not possible to be a safe young space for young people in Tottenham while that same space is a licensed premises. Yes, there are plenty of nearby restaurants have alcohol license. But the issue with the all-day licence for Chickentown is because of its marketing strategy is to attract afternoon young customers. Alcohol will be on sale in the business and a large element of the day customers will be youngsters, and I am not sure how the licensed bar area can be separated from the venue being a professed safe place for young Tottenham.

I am happy to explain further and to make representation before the committee.
